

Football Clinics Get Underway Tomorrow

The football clinics for boys under high school age will be conducted by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board tomorrow morning at Fairdale, Fern Creek, Okolona, Valley, Jeffersontown and Anchorage. These sessions, which are designed to teach the younger boys how to pass a football, kick it, and handle it in general, will be under the jurisdiction of the following instructors: Fairdale, Jack Pollack; Okolona, Bob Beams; Valley, Herbie Lewis; Fern Creek, Jack Niman; Anchorage, Jim Crosby; Jeffersontown, Billy Mitchell or Emmett Groat.

Besides these centers, Highview will have a clinic conducted by Tom Tindall, Lyndon will be handled by John Osburn and Camp Taylor by Charlie Bruce.

After the boys have been taught to handle the ball they will proceed further with the instruction in formations and some football.

When the clinics come to a close in November, the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board plans a big county-wide football field day when all of these youngsters will be brought together for contests in skill in football fundamentals.

The boys may look forward to handsome awards for skill and efficiency attained in the Saturday morning clinics.

Clinics at all county locations will start at 10 a. m. and run until 12 o'clock noon. All county boys, under high-school age, are invited to enroll for the clinics tomorrow.

Contest To Select County Theme Song

According to Charlie Vetterlin music is one of the best forms of recreation offered to county people on the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board's program. During the summer months the county-wide band for the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board which was the only one of its kind in the nation.

At the same time Margaret Clayton provided an abundance of musical recreation in the form of choruses, trios, quartets and groups of women who care to try a lyric.

Now the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board will incorporate into its fall program a song-writing contest to produce a county song for Jefferson County. The idea, which had its birth in the mind of E. P. White, Jr., is grounded on the idea of a "county song" which would immediately symbolize the county's beauty, forests, outstanding recreation and progressive people.

Working through the music teachers of the schools the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board is planning a county-wide song-writing contest which will be open to every boy, girl or woman who cares to try a lyric.

The plan and the rules for entering the contest will be sent to the schools in the next few days. E. P. White is arranging handsome awards to be given the winners in the county song-writing contest.

Vetterlin Appointed To Speaker's Bureau

Yancey R. Altshuler, who is in charge of the Speakers Bureau for the Community Chest-USO campaign, has appointed Charlie Vetterlin, county recreation supervisor, to the Speakers Bureau.

At a luncheon, held this week, Mr. Charles Morris, of the Board of Directors of the Community Chest, and Mrs. Dorothy Vetterlin, the Director of the Louisville Service Club-Affiliated with the USO, outlined the plans for the speaking campaign to raise funds.

Each speaker was asked to exert his influence toward putting the drive over the top for the benefit of our young people and returning veterans. Vetterlin announced that he would like his talks about the fact that World War II has left its scars on young people even though no bombs fell here and that many returning veterans must be given psychiatric help in their personal problems through the Mental Hygiene Clinic.

The Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board is dedicated to service of all people and all agencies working for young people, and the board is glad to have the help of the national organization.

Artificial Breeding To Start In County

Completing its headquarters near St. Matthews, the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association has announced that it is ready to launch its state-wide program to develop Kentucky into one of the leading dairy states. Twelve to man the advantage of breeding to some of the best sires.

Offering of the highly-bred sires kept at the central stud will eventually replace cows of low milk production, thousands of which will be improved, and the dairy income of the State materially increased, the association believes.

The report of the State organization says there are over 600,000 dairy cows in Kentucky, with annual milk, cream, veal and other dairy products worth about $75,000,000.

Many cows now are in herds too small to afford a high-powered sire. The artificial breeding program will enable many of the small herdsmen to have the service of some of the best sires of the various dairy breeds.

Farmers Urged to Keep Up Soil Improvement

Jefferson County farmers are urged to carry out all the soil-building and water-conserving practices possible on their farms this fall.

Minor C. Brooks, chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation (AAA) Committee, stated that there is still several fall conservation practices which farmers can carry out even if it is too late now to carry out practices they selected on farm plans last spring.

The time was never more important for farmers to improve their land for efficient production, he said. Both city people and farmers have a stake in soil and water conservation since it takes three and one-half acres of every year to produce all the food and most of the clothing for one person.

Last spring, 1,200 out of 2,000 farmers in the county made out a 1946 Agricultural Conservation Program plan. Under this Department of Agriculture plan, they carry out soil conservation measures on their farms.

Those who have trouble carrying out practices listed on their farm plan, please let us know," Chairman Brooks said. "The committee will be glad to help in arrangements to complete practices or substitute another one for it."

Brooks said that if farmers can't carry out their practices this fall, they should tell the committee about it so the committee can then cooperate in their share-the-cost conservation plan with one of your neighbors who otherwise might not be able to carry out a soil-building practice this fall, he added.

"We want to get all the conservation work done that we can from funds provided for this country," he went on. Soil-building practices make better farms. They also improve the land for all of us. There is a direct connection between good soil and good health. That's why Uncle Sam figures it good business to cooperate with farmers in doing the conservation job."

FIRE MOVIES PLANNED AT FAIRDALE FAIR

The Fairdale Community Fair, which is held annually on Friday and Saturday, October 4 and 5.

Major Paul Yost, county fire warden, said he would show a picture depicting fire hazards will be shown on both days. The movies which are equipped with sound are sponsored by the Fire Marshall's Office, State Fire Chief Claude Thompson and Major Yost.

The subject of one film is fire in communities showing the manner in which disastrous blazes spread from house to house while the second depicts the violence of a house fire destroying timber and precautionary methods that should be established.

Breeders of Angus cattle in Barren County are planning to hold a sale next February.

DOHN HOME BURNS ON ROCKFORD LANE

Fire destroyed the home of Edward Dohn on Rockford Lane, in Shively, Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock.

The only part of the fire was not burned and the blaze spread so rapidly that the house was in ruins before the fire apparatus arrived.

County Recreation Attracting Attention

Recreation, as conducted by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, is making an influence felt in neighboring counties. Charlie Vetterlin is being called by the Shelbyville Kiwanis Club Thursday for an address on recreation. Previously Vetterlin had been the same town to present the idea of county recreation to the Shelbyville Rotary Club.

On Tuesday, September 24th, the county recreation staff is to appear before the Elizabethtown Rotary Club to outline the fall month program of recreation to be conducted by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board.

Recreational cruises are already scheduled for Spencer County, Nelson County, and Hardin County. The program of the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board is on the move and attracting attention to the extent that other counties are wanting similar programs.

According to Prof. T. T. Knight, who went to the University of Tennessee to study the county recreation plan. This announcement was made at the University of Tennessee, where a sending a group to the county to see how county recreation work.

Fire Prevention Week Coming October 6-12

By Chief Claude Thompson President Harry S. Truman and the National Fire Protection Association designated the week of October 6-12 as "Fire Prevention Week."

Fire Prevention Week just as the Spirit of Christmas should be in the air on the calendar of December 25th. Anything worthwhile, to be truly effective, is dependent on the calendar of daily application. This is especially true in fire control for by concentrated daily thought and action of all fires can be prevented just by observing a very simple rule—mainly good housekeeping. Saving one lives and property from fire is as simple as that.

Every minute of the day and night is a minute of opportunity of business is destroyed by fire in the United States. Communication of this danger must be planned, but fire will occur when we are generally careless.

The leading causes of fires year after year are too much smoking and matches; the misuse or failure to repair defective electrical equipment; old furnaces; defective chimneys; spontaneous ignition of rubbish such as papers, magazines, old furniture, etc.; the like accumulated in attics, basements and closets; defective wiring; and, finally, carelessness; inflammable liquids, such as kerosene, oil, etc., used or stored in the home.

The National Fire Protection Association has pointed out that the fires during 1945 were greater in number and loss than in any preceding 16 years and that the estimated loss for the first four months of 1946 was $60 million more than during the first four months of 1945.

The increased losses are attributed largely to substandard construction and installation, inadequate protection and maintenance of facilities and fire protection, and the cessation of critical inspections.

The association is apprehensive of a further increase in fire deaths because of the housing shortage, as we use up large old residences and permit people to sleep in places and elsewhere without adequate facilities and fire protection. They warn against laxity in building codes to permit emergency housing and the use of inflammable materials in alterations and new buildings.

Percy Bugbee, general manager of the National Fire Protection Association, has declared that when it comes to safety, "Americans are too proud to ever learn from the burn after the house is stolen," and that "the public thinks too much about fire that it is too late."

Fire Prevention Week offers everyone an opportunity to join in the fight against fire. It is an excellent time to put our domestic home in order and to crack down on fire hazards.

In this country, regardless of occupancy or special hazards, fires have been and will continue to be a burning shame.

Let us recognize fire as the enemy it is and ever remember that eternal vigilance is the price of safety.

"Houses have heads but no brains. When you use THEIR heads, use YOUR brains."

The Fiscal Court In Action

SEPTEMBER 11, 1946

County Treasurer James E. Tierney's report was received and filed. The county's balance as of September 10 was $39,083.59. A check for $10,000.00 was cashed, headed by Mrs. W. A. Heitmann, appeared before the court to request an appropriation of $12,000 a year by the county for a fully-staffed and equipped library building.

Various and sundry angles of the matter were openly and freely discussed—among which was the proposed "bookmobile" type of service that is being planned by the Library Board and which Mr. Graham explained is being held up because of the Board's inability to purchase the right type of truck. It was brought out that four communities in the county are now being served in a partial way with book distribution, but this is mostly fiction and hasn't a lot of reference value. For this service the county appropriated $10,000 for this fiscal year, and it isn't likely that another $12,000 could be added to the appropriation because the money just isn't there. The matter was referred to Commissioner Tierney to pursue the matter with whom this delegation was asked to confer. It is felt that it will be a long time before the matter is referred to the court again. St. Matthews, there are four or five other communities in the county equally entitled to the same service.

Jaller George Berry and Architect Stratton Hammond appeared before the court to discuss the matter of getting at least $50,000 from the county to complete jail repairs and renovations. Architect Hammond stated that any delay now will prove most costly later. The two were to start work and go as far as their funds would permit, and perhaps by that time two or three months hence the court might be in a position to supplement the $50,000 already given to the jail this year. It appears that this action of neglect or backlog of work or things unattended to in the jail is the result of neglect for the past ten or twelve years.

Miss Mary Tarleton appeared before the court in the interest of her employer, R. G. Potter, commercial photographer, to request permission to put enlarged and framed photographs of early scenes of Louisville streets and landmarks on the lobby walls of the County House. County Attorney Steinfield felt that this wasn't legally possible; so the matter was referred to him for a written opinion.

A claim for $600 from Mr. Roy Buehler, for the loss of 203 turkeys killed by a stray dog on August 2 was referred to County Attorney Steinfield for investigation and okay.

Various bids on new automobiles and other items were opened and read and referred to the interested parties for tabulation and report. The county received a check for $1,372.83 representing a free-will contribution on the part of the officials of College Court and LaSalle Place Housing Projects in lieu of taxes for the full fiscal year of 1946-47. This is one of the objections local government has to these housing projects, in that revenue derived from them is far from proportionate to the size of the projects. If they were owner private, the county certainly would receive many thousands of dollars more in taxes. County Road Engineer RoBards reported to the court that he recommended to the Louisville & Jefferson County Planning and Zoning Commission that all county roads now part of the county road system be set up on the master plan at 60-foot minimum width so that any future improvements abutting these roads would be set back the proper distance in the event the county decided to widen these roads in the future. Forester Paul Vitz addressed a letter to the court asking that his rolling stock be put under his direct supervision and not be part of the county transportation department. The matter was referred to Commissioner White for recommendation. Commissioner White read a letter to the court from Mr. Blackman, Chief Engineer of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad stating that a steel watch tower would soon be erected on or near the site of the St. Matthews depot in order that someone in the capacity of watchman could properly operate the Chesapeake and Ohio safety gates and bring some order out of the chaotic conditions now existing in St. Matthews at this crossing. County Comptroller Tinnell addressed a letter to the court asking that they define what organizations to which county officials should have the membership dues paid for out of the county funds. County Attorney Steinfield was instructed to draw up a resolution to the effect that any organization that a county official would belong to because he held an elected or appointed office would be considered as just grounds for expenditure of county funds for membership dues. Any organization that a county member, elected or appointed, would belong to whether or not he held office, the dues would be considered ineligible for payment out of county funds. Judge Barker prefaced his request for additional police protection with an interesting and revealing statement on the condition of affairs in Jefferson County. He explained that there were 327 square miles of territory to be policed; that we had only 12 cars and 85 men to do this with—the 95 men divided into three shifts—20 or 30 of them eligible for actual police work because of office, radio and other duties. He further explained that former FBI Agent Benjamin Lawrence had, at Judge Barker's request, checked and found that there were 1,000 cars in Jefferson County and Louisville tax payers was $4 million dollars annually. He stated that at least ten more county police immediately with the promise of additional men as soon as funds could be found. Court adjourned at 4:30.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life... how they felt "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs... going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families)... renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or picking horseshoes... enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all it's in the direction of maturity and tolerance... tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of life and let life live from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.

Vet Income Ceiling
In accordance with recent amendments to the "G.I. Bill," subsistence allowance plus compensation shall not exceed $150 per month for a veteran without a dependent or $200 per month if he has a dependent or dependents. This means that a single veteran receiving $180 monthly from his employer would receive $30 as subsistence allowance. Thus the total amount received comes within the total of $175.

In case he is married and his earnings are $125, he will receive as subsistence $75, instead of $30 per month, thus keeping the total amount received within the $200 ceiling.

The first three subsistence checks issued after enactment will have enclosed a notice stating the provisions of the law, and that if there is an overpayment on the part of the Veterans' Administration, deduction may be made from future payments of subsistence allowance, or, by direct reimbursement by the veteran.

"Compensation" as used in this article means wages, salary, commission, bonus or other payment received by a veteran by virtue of his employment, whether self-employed or otherwise, and regardless of whether such compensation is related to his training.

The term "wages" shall include overtime work customarily scheduled, but will not include occasional overtime beyond the standard work period of the establishment.

When lodging, meals, laundry or other services are furnished a person in training, and there is compensation, an allowance representing the reasonable value of such services will be added to the actual wages or salary in determining the rate of compensation received.

The new law distinguishes between the standard apprentice training, supervised by Federal and State apprenticeship agencies, and "other training on-the-job."

Federal and State apprenticeship agencies may train to a maximum of four years, whereas the other training on-the-job programs may train for more than two years in duration.

It must be emphasized that veterans training in these programs under the "G.I. Bill" only, must furnish their training officers a statement of earnings for August, September and October or before November 5, 1946.

It is your writer's opinion that the ceilings imposed by the Veterans' Administration are bound to have a detrimental effect upon training on-the-job programs. At the same time, the provision may favorably affect those taking in-training training in that they will be able to work full time and still draw subsistence allowance.

FARM BUREAU AIDE

Price graduated from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in 1933 and was with the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation seven and a half years prior to entering the Army March, 1942. He managed the Kentucky Farm Bureau Auto Insurance Service during his last two years with that organization. Now he is director of public relations for Blue Cross.

Entering the Army as a second lieutenant in March, 1942, he was discharged August 6, 1946 as a major. His last assignment was seven months in Osaka, Japan, in charge of Agriculture, Civilian Supply, and Procurement in the 4th Military Government Group.

In his new position, Mr. Price will continue to work with Farm Bureau people, as well as the general public, because the Farm Bureau now has a contract with the Blue Cross to make available prepaid hospital service to its members. The Blue Cross Service is a non-profit, prepaid hospital plan, sponsored by hospitals, offered only to groups of individuals, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Price who now live at Princeton, Ky.

FARM FOLK ANNUAL PARTY AT SWISS PARK THURSDAY
Prizes were in store for Jefferson County farm folk attending the Farm Bureau's annual turtle soup supper Thursday night at Swiss Park. A special orchestra was engaged to furnish entertainment and music for the party.

Mrs. Mayme Kerns and Miss Clara Fellows were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Keller. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Keller are the hosts of the party.

Clifton McElroy of McCracken County dug about 3,000 feet with his hands to drain 25 acres which he plans to make good permanent pasture.

VETERAN'S INFORMATION

Education
The Veterans' Administration today called for special steps to make certain every disabled veteran in Kentucky seeking education is able to enter school this fall despite crowded conditions in the various educational institutions.

VA's position was outlined in a letter received by Harry W. Farmer, regional manager for Deputy Administrator Ralph H. Stone of the VA's Kentucky-Michigan Ohio branch office in Columbus, Ohio. He directed regional offices in the three states to "exhaust every available resource" for the admission of disabled veterans to courses they need to complete their vocational training.

Stone said the "prompt and successful rehabilitation of the disabled veteran" is the primary responsibility of VA's vocational rehabilitation and education service. He added he did not believe any school would refuse to make special arrangements for these men if their cases were brought to the school's attention.

A total of 1,185 disabled veterans "entirely dependent" are in training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16) on August 30. Of this number, 724 were in schools and 461 were taking on-the-job training. This is approximately 10 percent of the total number enrolled a year ago.

Many veterans of World War I are not aware that they may still purchase United States Government Life Insurance, William H. Arthur, regional insurance officer for the Veterans' Administration announced today.

Arthur urged ex-servicemen of the first world war to seek advice of their local VA contact representative for more information of their individual eligibility.

Arthur urged ex-servicemen of the first world war to seek advice of their local VA contact representative for more information of their individual eligibility.

Seven types of USGI Insurance available to eligible veterans include a five-year term policy that can be renewed three times at the attained age, which may cover a total of 25 years; a policy of life insurance, limited payment life and endowments. The face amount of the policy may be paid through four different methods, including term sum and life income.

In addition to the low-premium contract issued during World War I, Arthur said, there exists a type of term policy which may be given that opportunity for recreation. Mr. Knight announced that as far as he was able to ascertain his school becomes the first in Kentucky to open its library for recreational purposes.

Enthusiasm for good reading led to the introduction of Jefferson County's first library, which is now open to the public. Mr. Knight announced that as far as he was able to ascertain his school becomes the first in Kentucky to open its library for recreational purposes.

TEACHING RESPONSIBILITY
Prime responsibility for teaching children to obey the laws of the land, training them to be good citizens, and to be patriotic, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, pointed out in giving his endorsement to the sixteenth annual observance of Religious Education Week, September 29 to October 6, in churches and communities of rural and urban areas of the continent, under the auspices of the International Council of Religious Education. "You are offenders listed when adults have fallen down on their responsibilities," that type of recreation is to be made available to you.

of that redemption in the Mass, the flow of God's grace through the seven sacraments. Architecture, music, painting, and sculpture point up these facts for us. It is a new world of art and life for us as vital realities in this twentieth century.

We do Catholics no more than Protestants. When we say that we can tell the difference in importance between the package and its wrapping. In Mexico and in Spain, for instance, within our memory, the Mass was celebrated without benefit of candles or priest. It was offered by a priest in street clothes, seated at a restaurant table on which there was a slab of bread and a goblet of wine. And there was not a Catholic in the world who would not realize that, had he been in the Mass, he would have been assisting at a ritual equal in dignity to a Mass sung by the Holy Father in Rome with all the pageantry of Papal ceremonies in the Vatican Basilica.

So while the wrappings may be very beautiful, it's what's inside that really matters! For explanation of anything Catholic ask a Catholic. Write Rev. Jos. A. Newman, Director, Catholic Information Society, St. Helen's Parish, Shively, Ky.

J-town's gonna be a right lively place this fall with football in the air. How about it, Sammy Smith, is Smoke Ringer or right?

ALL-COUNTY BAND

Above is the Jefferson County All-County Band, sponsored by the Jefferson County Recreation Board and organized and directed by Miss Fannie Stoll, teacher of music at the Jeffersontown High School.

Besides playing at numerous county functions the band was invited to several out-of-county events and received popular acclaim wherever they played.

Smoke Ringer has long admired Chester Jenkins because he has done that other fellow and he richly merits this week's pipe award.

Believe it or not. A long distance call came to the office of the Jefferson County Recreation Board and Recreation Board from away down in Western Kentucky's coal mines.

It was from Bill Trever, a miner who never misses a State Tournament basketball game. He wanted to buy one of Smoke's famous cob pipes.

You can't buy em, Bill - you gotta earn em. You get inter-acted in kids do something for them and, "Bless Your Heart" ole Ringer'll find out and your pipe will be on its way.

Take Ben Thorne from over on Route No. 4 for example. Ben's proudest moment was the time when he won a big victory banquet with Middleton on the receiving end of the runner-up award. Each individual member of the Camp Taylor championship team will receive a small cash prize in recognition of the achievement.

A program of recreation is on tap with Earl Rupp, sports editor of the Courier-Journal, and Rev. L. M. Sanders presenting the trophies, and Charlie Vettiner serving as toastmaster. Besides the Camp Taylor team managers of all teams have been invited to attend the victory banquet. The banquet, which is to be a gala affair with 60 percent, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

SHORT SHOTS
Cane Run Recreation, enthusiastic, headed by Robert Marquess, Ed Young and Ben Gramig, have created a recreation building on the playground.

A dramatic club, under sponsorship of the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, has been organized at Okolona.

Nelson Goodwin, Newburg recreation chairman, has moved planned for one night each week in the Newburg district.

The movies of the Junior Olympics have been processed and are ready for showing. Lillian Gray, popular Fairdale teacher, has purchased a new home near Smoke Ringer Center in the Fairdale district.

Arthur Chapman, the fighting champion, has moved planned for one night each week in the Newburg district.

City Group Asks For County Recreation Aid

A service, recently set up by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board provides planned programs for special occasions such as picnics and get-togethers for groups from all over the county.

So successful has been the service that its work has been brought to the attention of various clubs outside the area. A number of calls came to the office of the county recreation board during the past week from organizations in the city.

The Richmond Club designated A. Lake wrote to consult the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board in regard to setting up a field day program for members of the Richmond Club and their families.

The program is to include boys, girls, men and women of all ages and was made to order for the broad county program which is ready to supply whatever groups will let the service take care of their recreation needs.

Jefferson County is daily becoming more and more conscious of the vast service offered by county recreation as it is evidenced by the fact that Miss Anna Evans, chief of the Home Makers, has asked for a program for her Homemakers Club on October 26th. She wants folk dancing and music. A Flying Squadron has been designated by Charlie Vettiner to provide the recreation.

Recreation Features Annual Fairdale Fair

The Fairdale Community Fair, which will be presented by the Fairdale Civic Club on October 26th, will feature a wide variety of recreational events of the year in that area.

The Civic Club, which is the recreational committee co-operating with the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, has planned a wide variety of recreational events of the year in that area.

Under the direction of Charles W. Blake, who was recently appointed area recreation supervisor for Fairdale by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, a broad program of recreation is in store for Fairdale. Blake, who is a past master in the art of conducting community fairs, is enthusiastic about the 1946 affair. The fair will be incorporated into the Fairdale area recreation program and should attract more than 5,000 people to see county recreation at its best.

The Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board has been approached by Blake to arrange for some games and social recreation as well as the big fair festival. Blake stated that he will be ready to announce his October recreation program for Fairdale by the end of the week. Planned programs of recreation are on tap over all the county.

marine of Guadalcanal, informed Fairdale School authorities that he is attending a Teachers College in Oregon.

Harry Gresch, the old Fairdale Flash, is back in school and will be on the basketball squad after a hitch in the Navy.

FUTURE AMERICA

A man told me that he wasn't completely sold on Teen-Age Clubs. He wasn't sold on their gathering together to enjoy their games, dances, and social recreation.

This same man said that, by all means, boys and girls must be steered away from night-spots, and places where the wrong kind of influence was exerted.

The man said that he was all for those young people having fun and plenty of it. He had forgotten that time he was a young man full of keene desire for something to do.

He further remarked that he had fun doing lots of things with his gang. Whether he realized it or not that gang was an unorganized Teen-Age Club, unbridled and unguided.

There was that time when his youthful gang had had a lot of fun tearing off a gate on Halloween, swiping melons out of a farmer's field and had climaxed a New Year's Eve celebration at a night-club and amusement park.

That man is trying to kid somebody. He isn't for young people at all. He's a cut and dried "fuddy duddy" who wants to say, "these Teen-Agers, what are they coming to?" by to advise who their filings years ago unbridled and unguided.

Youth will be served somewhere - it will either be in Teen-Age Clubs, where they are properly chaperoned and supervised, or it will be in some place of ill repute.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson County - a Teen-Age Club in your community, as conducted by the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board, provides a wholesome recreation outlet.

Get that Teen-Age Club started and save some youngsters for Future America.

CATHOLIC INFORMATION

THE PACKAGE AND ITS WRAPPINGS
Occasionally we get a package wrapped so beautifully that we hate to open it. That happens most often at Christmas. But we hasten to do it, never was a package so beautifully wrapped that we didn't finally open it. We open it and find that the package that matters and however beautiful the wrapping is, it's the package that matters and however beautiful the wrapping is, it's the package that matters and however beautiful the wrapping is, it's the package that matters.

There are a few people who, in viewing the Catholic Church, mistake the wrappings for the package. They see the gorgeous vestments; they smell the incense; they hear the music floating from the chancel; and they mistake all those "wrappings" for the package. Our Catholic Church, in their eyes, is compounded of holy water, blessed candles, priests, statues, and incense.

They overlook entirely the great beliefs and principles enclosed in these wrappings. They don't see that the Catholic Church is rooted and founded on a firm belief in the Trinity-God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit, and the fall of mankind and its redemption through the Blood of Jesus Christ; the daily renewal of that redemption in the Mass; the flow of God's grace through the seven sacraments. Architecture, music, painting, and sculpture point up these facts for us. It is a new world of art and life for us as vital realities in this twentieth century.

We do Catholics no more than Protestants. When we say that we can tell the difference in importance between the package and its wrapping. In Mexico and in Spain, for instance, within our memory, the Mass was celebrated without benefit of candles or priest. It was offered by a priest in street clothes, seated at a restaurant table on which there was a slab of bread and a goblet of wine. And there was not a Catholic in the world who would not realize that, had he been in the Mass, he would have been assisting at a ritual equal in dignity to a Mass sung by the Holy Father in Rome with all the pageantry of Papal ceremonies in the Vatican Basilica.

So while the wrappings may be very beautiful, it's what's inside that really matters! For explanation of anything Catholic ask a Catholic. Write Rev. Jos. A. Newman, Director, Catholic Information Society, St. Helen's Parish, Shively, Ky.

He's Still the Boss...

Remember this young man?
Dressed in khaki or blues or forest green,
he was a mighty traveler.

The Southern Railway System carried him hundreds of thousands of miles... to camps, to embarkation points, back home on furlough. Because of the vital job he was doing, we thought of him as the "Boss"

...and we still do.

You see, this young man is now doing mighty important things... as a civilian. He's building an even greater, stronger, and more prosperous Southland.
And we're still right alongside him... helping.

We help by providing efficient, dependable, around-the-clock railroad transportation... in all kinds of weather, come what may.

We help by paying taxes and all our other costs of doing business... by giving employment to 45,000 men and women... by shopping in the territory we serve for many of the 65,000 items of materials and supplies we use.

The "Boss" can count on us working for him... and with him... helping to make his dreams come true. And so can all the men, women and children in the South who are our bosses, too.

Home-Sewing Saves Homemakers Money

An estimated savings of $3,000 by Daviess County homemakers, who made or renovated 1,200 garments last year, made or renewed 310 hats and made 115 accessories, was reported to the annual meeting of the Daviess County Homemakers' Association. One hundred and forty-one sewing machines were also cleaned and put in good condition.

In the home-furnishings project, 570 pairs of curtains were made, 354 pieces of furniture were purchased and 341 refinishing, 480 floors improved, 63 hooked or braided rugs were made, 746 pictures hanging or removed, 191 homes were lighted with electricity and 116 electrical appliances purchased.

One hundred and thirty-eight homemakers sowed bluegrass on their lawns and 114 used fertilizer on them; 154 grew annual and perennial flowers. Then they planted 1,540 trees, 118 shrubs, 154 evergreens and 83 bulbs.

FERTILITY IN LEAVES

"Through fallen leaves, nature has provided for a fertile forest floor," says the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a mimeographed leaflet on autumn leaves prepared by the Forest Service. This tells some of the bad effects of even small fires in the woodlands in destroying and wasting fertility. Similar wastes occur, says the Department, when the town or city dweller burns autumn leaves instead of using them as mulching material or as a source of compost that can be used either as an organic fertilizer and soil conditioner to be spread into the soil, or when well rotted as top-dressing for lawns and gardens.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. This is an arm pot-roast of beef.

Q. Where does the cut come from?
A. How should this cut be prepared?
A. It is cooked by braising, as in cooking the meat "pots" in a small amount of fat. Then liquid is added and the meat is simmered over low heat until tender. From 3 to 4 hours cooking time is needed. Vegetables may be added from 30 to 45 minutes before the meat is done. Drippings in the pan are used for gravy to be served with the meat.

Kentucky To Elect
Sen. States Director
Representatives of the thousands of Southern States Cooperative members in Kentucky will elect a new member of the cooperative's board of directors this September 8.

A meeting to nominate candidates will be held at Louisville Thursday, October 2. The election will take place in conjunction with Southern States annual membership meeting at Richmond, Va., on October 31 and November 1.

This district, including the entire State of Kentucky, is now represented on the Southern States Board of Directors by Col. Blaine Short, of Campbellsville, who completes his term this year and is eligible to succeed himself.

The nominating meeting at Louisville, a delegate from each community in this area where Southern States service is available to farmers will attend to nominate three or more candidates for the post of director from this district known as Southern States Election District 9. The delegates and an alternate to the community were chosen at or immediately following the local community membership meetings held during the past summer.

"Where's your treasure?"

Many a small boy playing with a burning glass has conducted a simple yet significant experiment in soil conservation. He has focused the sun's rays on the wood until enough heat has been generated to enable him to burn his initials on it. Later in life he may bring to bear all his powers, faculties, and activities on one course of action and the attainment of a predetermined accomplishment. This time he is focusing thought and energy and recording himself, not with initials burned on wood, but as a citizen of the world, either useful or otherwise.

When time and attention are thus directed to the attainment of a specific objective, it is of vast importance that the objective be a worthy one. The directing of all one's efforts toward a single point is actually conservation, for it is equivalent to dedicating one's life to a single purpose. Consideration in this field, how necessary is a careful appraisal of what one's life is conserved to. Conservation, in the usually accepted sense, means dedication to a holy purpose, or serving God. If, however, examination shows that effort is being centered on something which is not Godlike, then a revision is at once in order.

But to the one concentrating on God, the devotion of thought and effort to a single purpose is the greatest example of true conservation. Christ Jesus, pointed out in his Sermon on the Mount that seeking God first will surely bring to mankind everything that is needed in this life and in the life to come.

In the closing verses of the sixth chapter of Matthew it is made abundantly clear that the thing to be sought is not material wealth, but spiritual understanding. "Where your treasure is," said Christ Jesus, "there will your heart be also."

The devotion of thought and effort to a single purpose is the greatest example of true conservation. Christ Jesus, pointed out in his Sermon on the Mount that seeking God first will surely bring to mankind everything that is needed in this life and in the life to come.

servant District Supervisors. To enter the contest every qualified student should write an essay, not exceeding 1,000 words on "Why a Soil Conservation Program is Important to Kentucky."

Special emphasis should be placed on the importance of soil as compared with other natural resources and the need for soil conservation district help in this program.

The three State prizes will include savings bonds of $100, $50 and $25. In addition, a $25 savings bond will be given the winner of the best essay from each of the soil conservation districts in which at least five essays are submitted.

Background material for the contest may be secured from county agricultural agents, vocational agricultural teachers, soil conservation service technicians, College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, and the experience of the county agents.

Use of Fertilizer Ups Wheat Yield
"It pays to fertilize wheat," says a report of George H. Hurley, Trigg County soils assistant, on results obtained by farmers cooperating with the TVA in testing the value of fertilizers.

Ten farmers harvested an average of 12.7 bushels of wheat to the acre where nothing was done for the soil, 17.8 bushels where phosphate was applied, 19.2 bushels where potash was applied. The phosphate was used in 28 bushels where limestone, phosphate and nitrate were applied.

The GARDEN
By JOHN S. GARNER

Tomatoes—To avoid tomato wilt, only the best sorts should be used at the first time anywhere in the garden. The trouble is spread by means of cultivating tools and even on shoe-soles.

Potatoes—Some early plantings did wonderfully well, but when the blight swept through, it killed everything in short order. The weather was to blame in that it was "blight weather," but spraying with Bordeaux or copper oxide kept plantings green and a good crop could be made.

Another cause for plants dying early was black scurf. The germs of this disease come on seed potatoes, but in normal spring seasons in Kentucky, they develop more or less slowly. This year, for weeks on end, the average temperature was low, and low temperatures makes this trouble more virulent.

The preventive would have been to kill the germs on the seed potatoes by treating with corrosive sublimate or with Senexol-B. Seed treatment pays for itself many times over in any year.

Another reason why potatoes died all at once was late blight, a disease that comes to Kentucky only in the fall season, and then not every year. This spring the weather resembled that of early fall, and there was an average temperature of below 60 degrees, just right for late blight to develop.

As with the other blight, spraying with some copper compound is the preventive, arming the soil so the germs (carried through the air) cannot obtain foothold.

All in all, it appears that home gardeners should be a bit more pesimistic, and expect always the black scurf and the several blights, treat all seed potatoes and lay out and adhere to a systematic spraying program with copper.

The beginning should be made when the plants are about four inches tall, and there should be at least one more spraying, possibly two, at intervals of two weeks.

High View News
By Mrs. Joe Bantz

Sunday night was the ending of a two weeks revival at High View with a splendid sermon each evening and much interest shown. Sunday the congregation went to the school for a basket dinner and get-together, then at three o'clock a good sermon was delivered by Bro. Friend entitled "Today If Ye Hear His Voice, Harden Not Your Hearts."

Neal Pauley returns home today (Monday) from a government hospital where he went for treatment as a result of a wound received while in the service.

Mr. Ernie Gray is building a chicken house on the Russell place recently bought. Mr. Joe Bantz is building two rooms onto his house, which are very much needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wright left today (Monday) for a visit with their niece, Mrs. Dorothy Poyner and Mr. Poyner at Waterloo, Iowa. They are also planning to visit other relatives in the west. Mrs. Margaret Wright and Mrs. Katherine Higgs went with them.

The Wright View Homemakers met in the home of Mrs. Ernest Schallerberger for their September meeting with 15 members and two visitors present. A lesson on clothing was read by Mrs. Simma.

A nice lunch was enjoyed by all in the afternoon a first aid lesson was given by Mrs. Evans, the instructor. These lessons will continue for ten months. The October meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Wm. Downing.

The club received four ribbons and $6.50 in money for flowers they entered at the State Fair.

Little Jackie Campbell was able to be at church after his attack of pneumonia. Mr. William Downing has been sick with a cold but is better now.

Mrs. Annie Woodrow spent the day Sunday with her brother, Mr. Carl Moore and family. Allen Kaufman and family, Allen Kaufman Thursday night.

Mrs. and Mrs. Mainard were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Kaufman Sunday afternoon. Watermelon was served.
